HELD IN ESTEEM
IN HOME TOWN

Fort Dodge, Iowa, Messenger Testifies to the Record and Citizenship of R. B. Berryhill, Who Died Here a Week Ago

The following from the Fort Dodge, Ia., Messenger is evidence of the esteem in which the late R. B. Berryhill was held in the town where he was best known:

R. B. Berryhill, known familiarly to hundreds of Fort Dodge people as "Bobby," died at his home in Phoenix, Arizona, Sunday morning at 2:00 after an illness of sixteen years with tuberculosis. Christmas cards were received Saturday from him by several friends here and pending definite news of the cause of his death, heart failure induced by tuberculosis is thought the cause.

The funeral will be at Phoenix Friday afternoon.

"Bobby" Berryhill came to Fort Dodge about 1888 after having been graduated from the engineering department of the State University of Iowa. He first became a bookkeeper for Platt Brothers Coal company in Central avenue and Third street.

Berryhill first became identified with the news stand business shortly after he came here when he bought out G. E. Medearis, who shared the store room now occupied by The Men's Fashion Shop, with the postoffice. Here he built up one of the biggest businesses in his line in the state.

The deceased man was taken ill with typhoid fever which left him in such a weakened condition that tuberculosis ensued. He fought the dreaded disease steadfastly. In 1900 he sold a share of his business to Guy Rankin, now with Tremain & Rankin Auto company and later sold the remaining share to Mayor John F. Ford.

Although a very ill man, "Bobby" established a news stand in Phoenix, the largest in Arizona. He gradually developed a mail order business, the extent of which was testified to by a twelve page advertisement in a Phoenix paper just before Christmas. For the past two years, Berryhill has managed his business from his bed. In his beautiful home in Phoenix, Mr. Berryhill's married sister kept the house and a trained nurse attended constantly to his wants. During the summer, Berryhill made his headquarters in Los Angeles, where he had the benefit of the cooling Pacific breezes. He has employed nine clerks in his Phoenix store for some time and during the holidays, had eighteen people in his employ.

Most Popular Man in Fort Dodge. Berryhill was termed the most popular man in Fort Dodge when he was here. He was always a "good feller," and was one of the town's chief boosters. The present Berryhill company, although some changes have been made in partnerships is the company he established. R. M. Stevens of the R. M. Stevens company and H. E. Peterson, were employed by Berryhill here and learned the business from him.

Berryhill belonged to several lodges. He was a Knight Templar, a charter member of the local lodge of Elks, and a Knight of Pythias. In his college days, he belonged to the Sigma Nu fraternity. The deceased man was about fifty-two years of age. He was reared in Iowa City, where he was graduated from the high school about 1884. He then attended the university.

Both of his parents are dead. A cousin, James G. Berryhill of Des Moines, and his sister in Phoenix are his only near relatives, so far as recalled here.

"Bobby" was hoping to see several of his old friends from Fort Dodge when they go to the Panama Exposition. R. M. Stevens was planning to visit him enroute to San Francisco as was H. O. Baldwin. Mr. Baldwin's brother-in-law, W. H. Gaughan is working for the Berryhill company in Phoenix.

Mr. Berryhill visited Fort Dodge four years ago. At that time he was very weak and could talk only a short time without stopping to regain his strength. He tried to visit here three years ago, but came only as far as Cotton. A number of his friends went there to see him.

When the news of his death became known in the business district this morning many exclamations of regret were heard. Berryhill's heroic fight against the disease was mentioned and several of the incidents of his life here were recalled. George Wheeler, Dr. C. J. Saunders and many other prominent men of the city were his intimates when he was here.

PRINCIPAL STABLER WILL REOPEN HIGH SCHOOL WORK

Head of High School Has Been Ill for Six Months; Will Attend Regular Classes Today.

The regular work of the Phoenix Union high school will be resumed today after nearly a week of the holidays. Principal A. K. Stabler, who has been quite ill for some time, has recovered, and will be on deck. Mr. Stabler has been out of active work for about six months. He will open the assembly, and will attend his classes today.

The Coyote band will offer a short program. Baseball preparations will start today with the call for men to try for the team. Practice will start within a short time. No coach has been selected yet, but the boys are hoping that Francis Geary, who so successfully managed the training end of two Coyote football seasons, will be secured for the baseball work.

CASTLE HOT SPRINGS
SEASON IN FULL SWING

Guests From All Parts of the Country at This Delightful Resort.

The season at Castle Hot Springs, Arizona, is now in full swing and many guests from all parts of the country are there to enjoy the wonderful winter climate and the benefits of the many amusements and pleasures, as well as the natural hot water springs, noted for its curative values.

Among the most important of the many sports to be had at Castle Hot Springs is golf.

Adjoining the hotel there is one of the sportiest nine hole courses in the west and much pleasure is derived from the same by the guests who freely use it.

On Wednesday last, December 30, there was held amongst the guests of the hotel, a tournament, in which nearly every person who could play the game participated. The noncombatants also showed great interest in the outcome of the match.

Prizes were offered to the winners of first and second places.

Mr. W. H. Carpenter of Monaca, Penna. was the winner of first prize, Mr. Harry Philip of Los Angeles, California, was runner-up.

In view of the great interest shown in the game by all the guests, it has been decided upon that a tournament of this kind will hereafter be a weekly feature, and it is expected that more interest and many more contestants will be attracted and participate in the coming tournament, as the number of guests of the hotel increase.

The weather was perfect and a more ideal day for such a feature, could not be expected.

The guests arriving for the week at the hotel are as follows: Mr. J. A. Halley, Charleston, W. Va.; Mr. F. G. Wallace, Pittsburgh, Penna.; Mr. and Mrs. F. Smith, Phoenix, Ariz.; Mr. J. M. Carr, Denning, New Mex.; Mr. A. D. Carlish, Mesa, Ariz.; Mr. A. C. Bartlett, Manchester, Mass.; Mr. Wm. G. Reed, Berkeley, Calif.; Mr. B. Alford, Hartford, Conn.; Mr. W. Y. Peters, Jr., Boston, Mass.; Mr. Philip Batchelder, Boston, Mass.; Mr. Geo. H. Pendleton, New York City, N. Y.; Mr. A. E. Caulkins, Delavan, Wis.; Mr. Ernest E. Caulkins, Delavan, Wis.; Mr. and Mrs. John C. McKeon, New York City, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Clay, San Francisco, Calif.; Miss Marleda Clay, San Francisco, Calif.

There are many reservations for arrivals within the very near future.

FEATURE PICTURE
AT THE EMPRESS

Second Week Under New Management Brings Feature to Old Play House.

The second week of the Empress under the new management opens with a feature bill under the title of "The Game of Life." The story deals with a multi-millionaire addicted to the whisky habit, and in love with Cleo, a beautiful girl, who is attracted by his money, but repelled by his addiction to drink. He decides to beat the habit by becoming a recluse on a desert island. While he is gone a new rival appears in the person of his best friend. The girl and her new immortal plot to gain his wealth during his absence. The plot takes the observer to the island, and many stirring scenes are enacted, ending with Hale becoming a new man physically.

The wonderful genius for acting of Eugene Bessmer makes "The Game of Life," aside from its pictorial power as a melodrama, exceedingly vital in psychological aspects and gives unusual values as a motion picture. The bill will be run for the first two days of the week only, at the popular prices of 10 and 15 cents.
